

TOTAL MOON ECLIPSE
Super Moon of Flowers and Blood

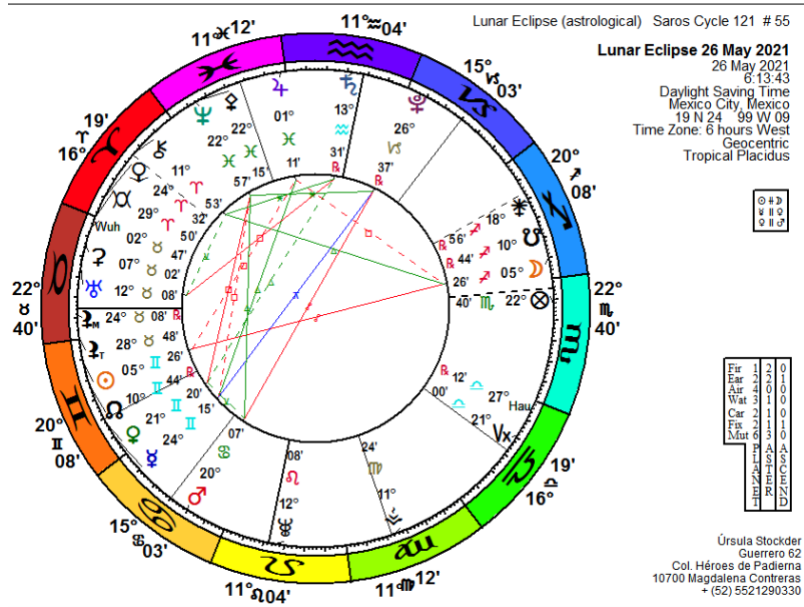

This May 26th we will have a very special Full Moon. Not only we will have the eclipse of the Moon, but also the Moon that is known as Full of Flowers and Blood, since during the month of May many flowers sprout in spring in the northern hemisphere and is given in perigee, the closest point to Earth.

On average we have two to three lunar eclipses during the year, but they are not always total. Depending on the alignment of the Moon and the Earth, we can have total, partial or penumbra.

A total lunar eclipse occurs when the Earth passes between the Moon and the Sun generating a shadow on the Moon. The three celestial bodies must be perfectly aligned for that to happen.

This total eclipse will only be visible in the western part of North and South America and in the eastern part of Asia and Oceania. The exact moment of this eclipse in Mexico and the Rivera Maya will be at 6:13:43 in the morning and will last approximately 3 hours, so prepare your rituals to welcome you to this lunar influence for the next 6 months.

In ancient times nature shows had a direct influence on the human psyche. Myths originate from an experience in relation to nature that fills the human being with wonder, fascination, helplessness, a religious feeling that we find difficult to understand today, since we have disassociated ourselves from it.

In Greek mythology the goddess Selene (the Moon) falls madly in love with the sheepherder Endimyon. Endimyon was awakened by the rubbing of Selene's lips upon his own.

The whole cavern was illuminated by the silvery light of the Moon. Before him he saw the brilliant goddess, and between the two a great passion was born.

Selene then went up to Olympus, and prayed to Zeus to give his beloved the realization of a desire, and the Lord of Olympus accepted. Endimion, after pondering it, asked for the gift of eternal youth, and to be able to sleep in a perpetual dream, from which he would only wake up to receive Selene. Zeus granted him his request.

This is how names (nomina) become gods(numina). Selene was one of the names of the Moon, because at first she was known as the "traveller among the stars" and Endimión was a name for the setting sun whose etymology is related to diving: the Sun plunges every night or bathes in the sea. Selene is the Moon and Endimion the Sun.

Endimión and Selene's love story has been inspiration for both poets, writers, musicians, painters and all the arts throughout history.

Above all, during the romanticism that emerged in the mid-18th century and the early nineteenth century there is an anti-industrialization movement in France, England and Germany, where above all in Germany the primal, the natural, is the honest and spontaneous. Folklore regaining importance through the stories of the Brothers Grimm.

The Moon is intimately linked to the soul. Because of its lunar cycles, the Moon was considered the Great Goddess of life and death and it was said that the function of the Moon was to represent the country of the Gods; the place where the souls of the dead rest. In lunar thought there can be no part without the whole.

The poet Keats said that. "The soul is an occasion to create; to make us more honorable, deeper." Only beauty takes us away from discouragement and can transform even the most horrible things, hence the importance of that beauty, nature is the teacher of life and the model of living the and from which we would have to learn.

The Moon is the mother of fate and is known by a multiplicity of names, but it is rare to find a goddess in some Greek, Celtic or Mesoamerican pantheon that does not possess a lunar appearance or manifestation, but it is difficult to find a Lunar Goddess who possesses all the symbolic characteristics. The Moon is the mother of fate and Maya means illusion and comes from the verbal root "ma", measure, conform, form, build, create, show or expose.

Maya is said to have three hidden powers of thought and sleep that occur through art, ritual and meditation, which are:

- The power to night watch
- The power to project
- The power to reveal

Eclipses are understood as portals that connect us to higher spheres, this is why throughout human history natural phenomena have always filled us with wonder.

These are times when cycles close and open. The influence of these eclipses can usually be felt 3 months before and 3 months after they occur.

- Both solar and lunar eclipses always bring us changes, something develops and we have an opportunity to grow, evolve and let go.
- We are confronted with ambivalent energy.
- Lunar eclipses confront us with our past and ancestral memory.
- The culmination of the Full Moon gives a prominent intensity.
- Unexpected and abrupt changes.

- Change of energy in relation to goals, leaving behind old or unnecessary habits "if we are ready or not".
- Powerful time: thoughts, words and actions are magnified.
- Time to contact ancient memory, old memories come to mind.

Moon eclipses go back to the past and bring out memories blocked or archived in our unconscious and the eclipses of the Sun impel us to define our future.

All planets have nodes, but Lunar Nodes tell us about the emotional development and evolution that is given through the emotional body.

During this eclipse of Moon and Sun, the nodes occur at the communication axis between Gemini and Sagittarius. Gemini (objective communication) representing the North Node, the lessons that we must integrate; Sagittarius the South Node (fanaticism and illusion), everything we should let go.

The Axis of Knowledge

The nodal axis of Gemini and Sagittarius was active on 25/6 May 2021 and will remain active until 24 December 2021. Nodes have been activated and aspected by Neptune in Pisces throughout 2021
